Legality

There are two important points within the CCTV Code of Practice 2008 which are basic points of law that must be adhered to.

CCTV Signs

CCTV signs are erected around the building within prominent locations that clearly identifies that CCTV recording is in operation. Signs are located at the entrance gate, the building entrance and inside reception.

Registering the CCTV System

The CCTV system is registered with the Information Commissioners office.

Organisation name: The Park Federation Academy Trust

Registration reference: ZA098238

Trading names Godolphin Junior Academy, West Drayton Academy, Cranford Park Academy, Lake Farm Park Academy, James Elliman Academy, Montem Academy, Western House Academy and Wood End Park Academy

The Data Protection Act 2018

The Data Protection Act 2018 relates to data processing of all types. The definition of data under the Act is 'Information which is being processed by equipment operating automatically in response to instructions; or is recorded with the intention that it should be processed'.

The definition of Processing is much wider in its scope than the previous legislation 'Obtaining, recording or holding data, carrying out any operation or set of operations on the data, organisation, adaptation or alterations, retrieval, consultation or use of the data, disclosure of the data by transmission, dissemination, or otherwise making available, alignment, combination, blocking, erasure or destruction'.

Data in the case of CCTV recordings is in the form of recorded images of individuals that can be identified from these images.

Having regard for these definitions, it will be recognised that the use of CCTV for surveillance purposes is encompassed by the requirements of the Data Protection Act.

Objectives

Operators of the system have access to a clear statement of the objectives of the system and responsibilities of those involved in its operation and management and to restrict unauthorised persons from gaining access to recorded images.

Confidentiality

Operators of the system are aware of the need for confidentiality and that recorded information must be kept secure and available only to those directly connected with achieving the objectives of the system.

Copy Recordings

Copies of recorded information are strictly controlled and only made in relation to incidents the subject of investigation, or a valid Subject Access request. Copies are only issued by the system manager to those directly connected with achieving the objectives of the system. Appendix A can be utilised to assist in issuing recorded images to authorised agents such as the police.

Information Sharing (Section 115, Crime and Disorder Act 1998)

The Crime and Disorder Act creates a power to share information from the System Owner/Operator to the Police and between the Police Forces, Police Authorities, Probation Committees, Local Authorities and Health Authorities.

Retention

The archive period of recordings is no longer than is necessary to achieve the objectives of the system. The archive period is 30 days unless the footage is required to be retained for lawful purposes.

Erasure

Digital recorders are set up in such a way as to overwrite old footage with new footage after the retention period has been reached.

Covert Recording

Because fairness requires that we install signs to make individuals aware that they are entering an area where their images are recorded, it follows that failure to provide signs are a breach of the Data Protection Act.

However, we are able to rely on an exemption of the Data Protection Act which states that personal data processed for reasons of prevention and detection of crime and apprehension and prosecution of offenders are exempt. Providing that the following criteria are met:

- We have assessed that if we had to inform individuals that recording was taking place it would prejudice our objective.
- We have reasonable cause to suspect specific criminal activity is taking place.
- That covert processing is only carried out for a limited and reasonable period of time and relates to the specific suspected criminal activity.

We have decided in principle that we wish to adopt covert recording. We have a clear documented procedure which sets out how we determine whether the use of covert recording is appropriate in an individual case. A confidential appendix regarding our decision that covert recording is appropriate is lodged with the Chief Executive Officer and Federation Principal.

Traceability and Record Keeping

Any recorded images that are copied to a third party data source, such as a video tape, USB, CD or DVD recordings, are identified by a unique serial number indelibly marked on the body of the media. The unique identity of the recording is obviously compromised if it is applied only to the outer cover.

Recordings must be logged and traceable throughout their life within the system. If images are copied to a third party media this is documented in Appendix A.

A routine audit is undertaken at regular intervals to ensure that recorded images are actually recording and that no fault exists with the recording system. The system is maintained by a maintenance company.

Original recordings are only found:

- a) Within the recognised secure storage system
- b) Operational in the recording device
- c) Secured in an evidence bag

Copies of recorded information are strictly controlled and only made in relation to incidents the subject of investigation or a valid subject access request. Copies are only issued by the system manager to those directly connected with achieving the objectives of the system.

Time and Date Stamping

The correct time and date is overlaid on the recorded image. These date and time settings are checked and corrected as part of the routine maintenance visits.

Secure Storage of Recordings

The recordings and recording/processing equipment are only accessible to those directly concerned with achieving the objectives of the system.

Recordings and Recording/Processing equipment are located in a secured lockable enclosure accessible only to authorised persons. A register of authorised users is maintained at all times.
